Born in Switzerland and raised in Canada, Emmanuelle Walker studied traditional animation in Montreal. She moved to Paris in 2007 to attend the world-renowned animation school Gobelins, and currently lives in London. Walker combines sophistication and playful quirkiness, which makes her work both warm and dynamic.

With a sense of humour Frank Kolkman connects science and design and sometimes provides a solution and sometimes he questions his audience or reveals a painful dilemma. Frank 's latest projects include: an Out-of-body experience simulator, a Domestic drug screening kit, a DIY Surgical Robot and proposals for a Humane Caviar Extraction Super Yacht & a Synthetic Rhino Horn Growing Device.

PLASTIEK is a new Digital Comic company based in Bangkok. The company's founders, André Bergs and Thawatchai Chunhachai, have a background in the animation industry, and use that experience to create new kinds of reading experiences for tablets and phones using real-time game engines. Their work with RRR and Protanopia has received wide acclaim and glowing reviews.
